SOUTHERN UTAH · ELEVATION 9,800 FEET

Brian Head, Utah

Utah’s highest town sits on a forested plateau above the red rock — about three hours up I-15 from Las Vegas, with a ski mountain, a national monument and two national parks out the door.

How far is it?

Approximate drive times from Brian Head

NEXT DOOR
Cedar Breaks National Monument	under 5 miles
St. George	80 minutes
Zion National Park	90 minutes
Bryce Canyon National Park	90 minutes

FROM THE CITY
Las Vegas	about 3 hours
Salt Lake City	about 3½ hours
Phoenix	about 7 hours
Los Angeles	about 7 hours
San Diego	about 8 hours
Denver	about 9 hours

YOU’D BE HERE

Brian Head

Town 9,800 ft · Peak 11,307 ft

On the Markagunt Plateau, Iron County

EIGHT REASONS PEOPLE COME UP AND STAY

01 Utah’s highest town

9,800 feet in town and 11,307 at Brian Head Peak, for long winters and cool summers.

02 A real ski mountain

650+ skiable acres across two peaks and 350+ inches of snow a year, with night skiing and a tubing hill.

03 New lifts, new terrain

Aspen Meadows has its first chairlift, with more lifts and terrain planned as the mountain grows.

04 Aspen Meadows

The mountain’s next chapter: roughly 2,000 private acres planned around ski-in, ski-out homesites.

05 A national monument

Cedar Breaks National Monument and its red-rock amphitheater are less than five miles away.

06 Two national parks

Zion and Bryce Canyon are each about 90 minutes away. Ski in the morning, hike red rock by afternoon.

07 Summer on two wheels

100+ miles of downhill singletrack and Utah’s largest bike park, with a chairlift to the top.

08 Duck Creek, next door

Duck Creek Village opens onto 300+ miles of designated ATV roads and trails, and nearly 100 groomed snowmobile miles.

Drive times and distances are approximate and vary with weather and traffic. Ski statistics are as published by Brian Head Resort. Aspen Meadows is a privately planned, multi-year development; future lifts and terrain are planned or proposed and may change. Duck Creek trail mileage is as published by Duck Creek Village Inn from the Dixie National Forest map. Imagery: NASA Blue Marble. Map data: Natural Earth. Not to scale for navigation.

GRIFFIN TEAM
REAL ESTATE ESSENTIALS St George
×
JACOBS CONSTRUCTION

AJ Griffin · 435.619.3465

customcabinsutah.com · lots, cabin plans and pricing